Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 12 depends from cancelled claim 10.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5-7, 9, 13-15, and 17-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Higaki et al. (JP 10-339383). Higaki shows a rapidly opening regulator valve (Figs. 7-8) with a main body 10, 11. Main valve member has a valve head 22 in the inlet side 11, connected to a piston that is responsive to outlet pressure at its lower end, and to inlet pressure at its top through passages 14, 16, and 23' when disk 52 is pierced. Note moving receiving portion 9 and spring 4, which biases the valve open. The piston moves in the moving receiving portion. Regarding claim 3, see Fig. 9. Regarding claim 5, area 25 is essentially the same as the valve seat area.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Higaki et al. It would have been obvious to make the valve head strong enough for its intended service, including the recited tensile strength.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Higati et al. in view of JP 55-20103. Higati shows a threaded cap 3. JP '103 shows a receiving member 26 that is threaded to the main body 2 with facing tapered areas away from assembly threads. It would have been obvious in view of the '103 document to provide tapered abutting surfaces on cap 3 and the main body of Higati in order to provide an additional seal to the o-ring 8.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Higati et al. in view of Kabushiki (JP 3058841). Kabushiki (Fig. 2) shows a threaded insert 20a (reinforcing means) that includes a stopping flange to stop threading advance. It would have been obvious to provide a reinforcing insert as taught by Kabushiki to the inlet of the Higati device for strength.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
